

Grant writer

Have you got a talent for writing and reviewing grant proposals? Do you want to help the NHS with innovative new digital technology? Come and join our small, dynamic team making a big impact on health and care.

We are a passionate, collaborative team determined to make a difference to the NHS by developing and encouraging commercial and impactful solutions to problems in health and care.

TheHill is Oxfordshire's health and care digital transformation catalyst. We are based at Oxford University Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust (OUH), working in Oxfordshire and across the Thames Valley with NHS Trusts, universities, digital developers, innovators and investors in order to scout for, nurture and deliver digital innovations into the NHS.

We are looking for someone to work with the Director to make grant applications for us as an entity, and review applications made by our start-up community. Prior experience of UK-based funding bodies such as NIHR, Innovate UK and UKRI, and European Horizon 2020 funding would be particularly helpful. The ideal candidate will take ownership of some proposals with guidance from the Director, whilst also contributing to proposals led by others.

We are happy to consider part-time or full-time and fully-remote working. The successful candidate will be employed as NHS Bank staff with a flexible-hours contract, with the rate depending on experience, and candidates must therefore have the right to work in the UK. We will be reviewing applications weekly until we find the right person (possibly more than one if part time) and would like the successful candidate(s) to start as soon as possible.

If you would like to find out more, or to apply for the role, please contact us at connect@thehilloxford.org with a CV and supporting statement before Friday August 14th. Interviews for this role will be conducted over video call.
