ABOUT THE GRANT

The Burdett Trust believes that through the COVID-19 pandemic nurses have emerged as true change agents in the digital space.

In response to the pandemic they have fast-tracked many promising digital health initiatives such as remote monitoring of patients and virtual clinics.

Many nurses leading digital health initiatives, would benefit from wraparound support to help them make their digital projects successful and sustainable.

This Burdett Trust grant programme will give nurses the opportunity to use their frontline experience and insight, to model new ways of working that can lead to transformational change in the way patient care is delivered.

The grants for the 2022 Digital Health Grant Programme cover three areas of digital health innovation:

- ✓ Data and analytics to measure and improve nursing practice and nurse-led interventions
- ✓ Leadership development for digital nurses and associated professional standards
- ✓ Patient-centred digital health improvement projects

OUR SUPPORT

TheHill is keen to support and partner with OUH nurses and midwives' groups who want to:

1. deliver a digital health project proposal for this call
2. explore ways of improving nursing with digital technology
3. model and implement interventions that lead to transformational change in the way patient care is delivered.

All Burdett Trust grant programmes focus on projects that are nurse-led and demonstrate an innovative approach. The Trust's grant programmes are not designed to support projects developed and undertaken by individuals and the Trust cannot award grants to private sector organisations.
